DEMOCRATS WILL CONTROL CITY GOVERNMENT FOR TWO YEARS

Election Results Puts Balance of Power in Hands of Bourbons

Democracy will control the affairs of the city and county of Honolulu for two years. The election of last Tuesday displaces Republicans from a number of important positions and puts the balance of power absolutely in the hands of Democrats.

The office of treasurer, always recognized as an important cog in the political machinery which sways elections here, has passed from Republican to Democratic control, Col. C. J. McCarthy being elected to succeed R. W. Shingle.

Six of the seven supervisors are Democratic—an exact reversal of the state of affairs on the present board, where W. H. McClellan has been the only Democrat among seven members.

Jarrett's hold on the police force is more firmly established than ever, an increased majority having been given him with the big Democratic wave that swept all the island.

Rose is again deputy sheriff. The other deputy sheriffs are divided. With a mayor, Democratic board of supervisors, Democratic sheriff and deputy and Democratic treasurer, the party has the control of all municipal legislation in its hands. It is a strategic position to build up an exceedingly powerful Democratic machine, and the clever generalship displayed by Chairman Riverbush of the county committee, Col. C. J. McCarthy, Ambrose J. Wirtz and others, is taken as sufficient proof that the machine will be developed and made ready for elections two years hence.

YALE FACULTY WINS IN LONG FIGHT AGAINST COLLEGE SNOBS

Freshmen Taken from Expensive Rooms and Housed in Dormitories

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 1.—Yale's war on snobbishness among under class men, which has been one of the reasons for providing more dormitory room on the campus, terminated the past week, when the last of the freshmen that could be accommodated were assigned to rooms on the campus. There were still about fifty left out in the cold, but some of these had homes in the city and were permitted to room there, while the others were put in private houses that Dean Jones selected.

The old freshman quarters on York street are deserted and for the first time in years landlords and boarding house keepers who have grown rich on the profits from green freshmen are on the lookout for other means of filling their vacant rooms. A few of them profited by the notice sent them a year and a half ago by Dean Jones of the academic department announcing that in September, 1912, freshmen would be expected to reside on the campus and warning them against making contracts with the first year men. A good many still tried to luck that at the last minute room would not be available on the campus.

Dean Wright leads crusade. This attempt to stamp out class exclusiveness and to bring all the members of each class into closer relationship by rooming together throughout the entire course originated some fifteen years ago with Dean Henry P. Wright. For years he fought, in and out of the faculty, for adequate accommodations, realizing that as the classes grew larger and the individual members wealthier the breach would naturally widen between the rich and poor students so that in the end Yale would lose that democratic spirit of which the college boasted.

At that time all the freshmen, a great majority of the sophomores and many of the juniors roomed outside of the college dormitories. It was merely a question of necessity as the college could not furnish dormitory rooms. By the gift of one or two new dormitories room was made on the campus for the greater number of the juniors and then the proposition that confronted the Yale faculty was what to do with the under class men.

Clique Grows Up. There had grown up outside of the college a clique of sophomores who roomed in one dormitory called the Hutch, a modern apartment house a couple of blocks away from the campus. The rooms in this building were elaborate and the tales of good times there in sophomore year were handed from freshman to freshman, so that rooms in that particular house were at a premium and were taken, of course, by the men who could pay the high prices asked for them.

A number of other houses in that vicinity were opened by private parties and these gathered in the overflow of sophomores, but the Hutch continued to be the centre of sophomore activity. All sorts of stories floated through the campus of deals put through there for election to junior fraternities and senior societies and it became a sort of college tradition that unless a man roomed in the Hutch during his sophomore year he didn't stand a good chance of landing a senior society election unless under extraordinary conditions.

Sophomore Headquarters Broken Up. Two years and a half ago Dean Jones announced that as accommodations had been provided on the campus the sophomores the next fall would be required to take rooms there and that the old sophomore headquarters at College and Crown streets would be broken up. There was opposition by the freshman class of that year, the individual members of which had been looking forward to a year of sophomore liberty away from faculty supervision. But the new rule was inexorable and the following September the sophomores took up their quarters on the campus, under the eye of college discipline.

In the meantime a fund had been raised to build on the old campus a memorial to Dean Wright and his twenty-five years of devoted services to the college and undergraduates, and it was decided that this memorial should take the form of a freshman dormitory to bear his name.

It would stand not only as a memorial, it was argued, to his services for Yale, but would at the same time be a fulfillment of his life wish that all the undergraduates might be brought together on the campus under college authority.

During the past two years more rooms have been available on the campus and a few at a time the freshmen have taken these. The old freshmen quarters on York street and in that vicinity were maintained, however, until the completion of the Wright dormitory with its accommodations for 150 men just before college opened this fall. Then Dean Jones announced finally that hereafter freshmen would also be required to live on the campus.

In making this rule governing the undergraduates, both upper and under class men, exceptions have been made in favor of men who roomed at their own homes in the city and those who were able to provide rooms outside at less cost than the college rooms and were able to pay for them by work of some kind. The latter class included only those men who were paying part or all of their college expenses.

Reasons for Change. The reasons for housing all the undergraduates on the campus from the faculty viewpoint were two: First, it was found that students living in college buildings maintained a higher scholarship, and secondly, there was developing a certain exclusiveness in freshman and sophomore years especially, that was being carried out throughout the entire course.

Statistics showed that a very large percentage of the warnings sent to delinquent students went to residents of the private dormitories. And it was also noted that cliques formed in freshman year continued throughout the course and that certain wealthy students had nothing in common with their poorer classmates and frequently did not know them even at the end of their college course. In addition it was found that in one exclusive private dormitory at least gambling was the favorite pastime, and as a result of these conditions students lost much money.

SEIZE SHIP TO TAKE GREEKS OFF TO WAR

New York Consul General Commandeers for Ammunition and Reservists

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The steamship Macedonia, scheduled to sail for Piræus with 2000 passengers aboard, was commandeered, just before sailing time today, by the Greek Consul-General at this port. All the passengers, with their baggage, were hurriedly sent ashore and the vessel prepared to sail at once for Philadelphia to take on a cargo of ammunition.

The Macedonia will return to New York, the Consul-General said, for the reservists of Greece and the Balkan states who plan to sail on her to take part in the threatened war with Turkey.

The Greek Consul announced today that he had received a cablegram from his government, instructing him to notify all the Greek reservists in the United States to return to their colors. Similar notices were received by leaders of the Bulgarians, Serbians and Montenegrins. It is estimated that there are 100,000 men of the four nationalities in this country who are capable of bearing arms.

LONG WIRE SPAN. The longest span of telegraph wires in the world is in Coochin China. They cross the River Mekong, posts 160 feet high having been placed on each side of the river at a spot where the width is 2500 feet, and from these posts silicious bronze wires—one .04 of an inch and the other .05 of an inch in diameter—are suspended across the stream.

ROOSEVELT WAS ELECTED EASILY BY Y. M. C. A. BOYS

Although the general election returns received from the mainland last night show that Woodrow Wilson will be the next president of the United States, he was hopelessly defeated by the Bull Moose candidate at the Y. M. C. A.-Star-Bulletin boys' election held at the "Y" yesterday afternoon and evening.

After the votes had been counted, of which five were rejected, the totals showed that Roosevelt had received 138; Wilson, 101, and Taft 50. For delegate to congress, McCandless led with 146 and Kuhn followed him with 138. Fern was elected mayor with a total of 139 votes, and Parker and Husted followed with 132 and 32 respectively. Three hundred boys registered during the time the polls were open.

The lanai of the boys' department at the "Y" had been fixed up to represent a regular polling place, with judges, clerks and regular voting booths. As the youthful voters entered they registered in the Great Register, which was presided over by Cross. They then moved on and received their ballot and were instructed how to mark it. They were then challenged by the judges in a very businesslike manner, and were asked the usual questions, "Have you ever been in jail?" and "Do you belong to the Army or Navy?" Leon Ebersole, Leo de Roo, Francis Soares, and Clifford Melin acted in the capacity of judges and asked the above questions as soberly as if it were a real, live presidential election, and every vote counted.

After they had been challenged by the judges they went to the booths and marked their ballot and deposited it in a big locked box especially designed for the purpose by Loomis. There was perhaps more interest taken in this election than in any event along this line that has happened in many a long day. From the opening of the polls at eleven o'clock the boys commenced to come, and there were a few still waiting when the time to count came at seven-thirty. It was a great success, and showed that there was no small amount of interest taken by the youthful citizens of Honolulu in the election of the president, which ended last night, as well as the Territorial election.

The greatest number of the youthful voters came in the afternoon after school was out, and as the registering and instruction took considerable time, assistant physical director Johnson arranged some games in the gymnasium for those who were waiting, and a game of table football seemed to attract nearly as much attention as the voting.

IF RUSSIANS WANT A HOLY WAR, WHAT CAN THE CZAR DO?

Momentous Talk with General Overheard by Attache Is Repeated to Newspaper Correspondent

BIALOWIESKA PUSZCZA, Russian Poland, Sept. 28.—Czar Nicholas, who is here for bison shooting, let slip some momentous words this week in the hearing of a foreign military attache, who repeated them to The World correspondent. Discussing the Balkan crisis with a veteran General in the smoking-room after luncheon the Czar said:

"We do not want a war in the Balkans, but Europe is mistaken in thinking that I can prevent it. My people are deeply religious. If the Bulgars, who are of our Greek church, should march into Turkish territory and get beaten no living force could keep my people from going to relieve them and delivering them from the hands of the infidel. It would be a case of a holy war."

"It is a mistake to think that Bulgaria can whip Turkey just because Italy is doing it in Tripoli. Turkey has to look on there because she cannot get her men out of Europe. The Turkish Army is at its best in the Balkans and will fight Bulgaria for all it is worth."

"Even if Serbia and Montenegro should join her Bulgaria could only put 352,000 men into the field. Armenia would help Turkey by attacking Bulgaria, and has 155,000 men for immediate service. This force, with Turkey's 375,000 men, would make their majority over the forces of Bulgaria and her allies 149,000 men, which is not to be despised, my friend."

"Czar Ferdinand knows this, and hangs back, but his subjects think they know better and threaten to dethrone him unless he marches against Turkey. What is the poor devil to do? "What can I do once my subject want a holy war against the infidel?" The Czar might have said a lot more interesting things, but at this point he noticed the attache in the room and changed the subject. The prevailing opinion is that the Czar, who takes a profound interest in the Balkans, has gauged the situation accurately.

HEADACHY, BILIOUS, UPSET? "CASCARETS"

Bilious, throbbing headache means bowels are clogged and liver stagnant—you need Cascarets.

You're bilious, you have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, with dark rings under your eyes, your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill-tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleaning up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and intestines can be quickly cured by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets, because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

NEW MAP OF ALASKA

LEDGER BUREAU, WASHINGTON D. C., Oct. 15.—A map showing the mineral resources of Alaska has just been issued by the United States geological survey and has been placed on sale at 10 cents a copy, or $6 a hundred copies. The map is 17 by 24 inches and by the use of a number of colors graphically portrays the known information regarding areas which are underlain by anthracite and high-grade bituminous coal; these known to contain low-grade bituminous coal and those which may contain such coal; those known to contain lignite. All these different classes of coal lands are shown by separate colors for their respective areas, and areas of gold and silver quartz, gold placers, copper lodes, tin deposits, petroleum areas, and gypsum mines are indicated by various symbols in red. Marble quarries are also shown. The map thus shows at a glance, in a general way, what is known of the mineral resources of our farthest north territory. The map was compiled under the direction of Alfred H. Brooks, geologist in charge of the division of Alaskan mineral resources in the survey.
